

MORNING APPEAL

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 19

The best opinion of the Duke of Marlborough ever published appears in the Salt Lake Tribune.

The late Duke of Marlborough, it will be noticed, was carried to his last resting place by a Marquis, an Earl, a Baron or two, and some high in command in the army. The ordinary American citizen will not understand this, because his impressions of the late Duke have been gained from the social scandals which have attached to his name. The truth is, that he was an immortal man; that his own passions and appetites were frequently his only guides, and that a whole black list of scandals attach to his memory. But beyond that, it is true that in an intellectual way the late Duke was one of the foremost men in England. He was cultured, he had perfectly clear ideas on a thousand important questions, and was one of the best posted men of affairs in the realm. Then, too, he was one of the most winsome of conversationalists, and by the sheer force of his brain won his way in circles that rejoiced at his presence even while they abhorred all his vices. He lived a fast life, the candle of which burned at both ends; and his picture taken by the two lights reveal him with features as radiant as an angel in some regards and yet with shadows of dark passions and uncontrolled appetites to shade what would have been a glorified likeness.

One of the most revolting crimes in Pacific Coast history was the murder of Belle Sullivan, a San Francisco beer hall girl, by her paramour. Such crimes are generally the result of apathy and hate of long standing and are most always expected from either one or the other. Belle Sullivan had been fearing for some months that Big Pat Sullivan would kill her. Still she remained in the vicinity she had haunted for several years before and constantly kept within his reach. Sullivan has been a dissolute character for the last five years and was a vagrant of the worst kind. It seems that the iron arm of fate has held this unfortunate woman within the grasp of her murderer, that he might kill her when he got good and ready. There seems to have been no law to protect her although it was known along the Barbary coast that he intended to kill her when the opportunity presented itself.

A real funny man in Dubuque, Iowa, has been put in jail just by way of continuing a joke. The humorist saw a man carrying a jug and immediately realized that it would be the most ludicrous thing in the world to shoot the crockery out of his hand. He did so, at the same time shooting away three fingers of the jug carrier and breaking his thighbone. Of course the man whom he was joking dropped the jug, at the same time falling and fracturing his skull so seriously that he will die. It is believed that the funny man will be given not less than ten years in prison, in which to think of how little a true humorist may be appreciated in this doleful world. It was a rich joke.

Another woman of the East aspires to glory through ministering to the lepers of the Hawaiian settlement at Molokai. The memory of Sister Rose Gertrude is still fresh. She, too, went out into the Pacific, armed with the same high purpose and heroic resolutions. Sister Rose Gertrude's ambition was satisfied by her marriage to a German doctor of Hawaii, and the lepers of Molokai still suffer and drag out their aimless, hopeless lives without the comforting presence of a ministering angel. Let Sister Mary Albini beware of German doctors.—San Francisco Chronicle.

The personal column of a New York newspaper contains this golden opportunity: "A well educated young man of good social position will marry any lady of means who will provide funds for him to procure a divorce from his present wife, whom he cannot get along with."

The Plaza murder at San Jose is, apparently, as much of a mystery as ever. There are many "clews," according to reports, but nothing, so far as known, has been developed that the right one is being followed.

A bank is to be opened in Lovelocks.

Thanksgiving Turkey Shooting.

Jim Wiggins has made preparations to have about 200 fat turkeys on hand in Empire for the annual 200 yard Thanksgiving shoot. On this occasion he has decided to knock the price of single shots down to 25 cents so that the whole community can get in, if they desire. Shotgun shooting at chickens 45 yards will be served out at the same rate. No shot larger than No. 6 will be allowed in the shooting, and the chicken must be knocked prostrate. The expert wing shots of this section will have a chance to get in the pigeon shoot on the pool system. Twelve dozen pigeons have been secured and good shots can make a haul easy. In the evening a masquerade ball and supper is on the program, and costumes can be secured at the hall. Plenty of stable room for visitors in vehicles and first class music will be on hand. N12d.
